Cobham House is a contemporary house designed to meet the owners very exacting requirements for being a fantastic living space whilst being as sustainable as possible.

As well as offering luxurious bedrooms, a gym, an office, a home cinema/media room, the house centres around an open plan kitchen/dining and living space that includes a glazed wine room and, as the focal point of the lounge, an incredible 4.000 litre aquarium built into the end wall. This is served by a plant room immediately behind that is powered by photo-voltaic panels.

External fish ponds straddled by decked areas, a lounge patio surrounded by a flowing stream and a bridge walkway over the stream from the gate to the front door complete the wonderfully tranquil outdoor space in this truly unique house.
