Amiri Construction were delighted when the Dorset office of a well known architectural practice asked them to look at the refurbishment and fit-out of their offices.

Our experience of working in occupied environments was essential as the client remained working in the building throughout and we phased the work around the minimum number of staff moves to vacate areas. Deliveries had to be scheduled carefully due to very limited access, shared car parking and no compound space and any disruptive activities carefully planned due to neighbours on either side as well as the staff in occupation.
